The Next Generation will take the helm of the future. How do you want them prepared? Whether they remain in the business, diversify it into something completely different, or simply are perpetuating your family, the influence you all have in their success is huge. There are plenty of challenges but also plenty of opportunities. This interactive program, coupled with an expert panel, will help you to lay down a foundation for the future.

Please join us for insight and discussion on how to:

- Build and share a vision for the future
- Importance of ownership continuity
- How to prepare the next leader
- Basics of family and business governance

There are many facets to preparing the next generation in a family and business; the combination can be daunting. However, with time, effort, and guidance, the path can be smoother.
