Menasha Corporation

In September, Menasha Corporation joined the Forum. Menasha Corporation’s roots were in the Pail Factory which operated in Menasha in the 1840s. In 1852, Elisha Smith purchased the Pail Factory for $1,200. Elisha was an outstanding business man and philanthropist who contributed greatly to the region. Visit their Corporate web site for the interesting history of the family business: www.menasha.com.

Today, Menasha Corporation is a niche-based packaging, logistics, and marketing services company that helps companies create a competitive advantage. By using innovation and technology, combined with broad industry expertise, the company enhances its customers’ supply chains and contributes to building brand awareness and prominence in the marketplace.

Anne des Marais Vought, a 5th generation member of the Smith family and president of the Smith Family Council, is eager to learn alongside other family business owners. She, Ralph Evans, Vice President of Human Resources, and Donald Jansen, Director of Employee Relations are planning to participate in programs and peer groups.

Thom Cody, Pathmakers, Inc.

As the holidays approach, life in general gets more and more hectic. At times, this is exacerbated when family and business come together. Join the Pathmakers team in exploring ways to enhance this holiday season and those that follow.

You will be introduced to helpful tools and taught to pursue ways to lead your business from a place of freedom. This will allow you to improve the family relationship and make the holidays and other family events something to look forward to with pleasure.

We encourage you to bring multiple family members and associates to this workshop. Register on the Forum’s website under the Programs/Registrations link.
Those Troublesome Compulsive Behaviors: What’s so Bad about Feeling Good?

On October 21, Tom Jadin led this insightful workshop and worked his magic by making the discussion of a difficult topic not only palatable but easy to explore and understand.

Tom helped us understand the impact of addictive/compulsive behaviors on ourselves and those around us, and how our behaviors can hinder, not help, us and others from living a healthy life. Providing warning signs, do’s and don’ts, and guidelines, everyone went home with tools and new understanding.

As always, Tom made us laugh and urged us to keep things in proper perspective.

Tom’s workshop will be posted on our website in the “Members Only” section by mid-November.

The Importance of Vision & Mission in Family Business Success

On September 16, Howdy Holmes, president of Chelsea Milling Company, spoke to 89 people about family business culture, leadership, and decision making as they relate to vision and mission.

Howdy made a strong case for viewing leadership as serving, engaging, and supporting employees. He said that if a leader makes that his/her first priority, the business will be successful.

In defining family business leadership, he defined the president as the person who work in the business on tactical and strategic issues, people development, and cultural enhancement. He defined the CEO as working on the business designing vision, mission and direction, encouraging volunteerism, and developing strategy. The Chairman of the Board, he defined, as working with the business on succession, governance, vision, strategy and public relations.

When talking about the importance of vision and mission, Howdy asserted that it’s more important for leaders to be faithful in what they believe than in being successful. He asked people to consider that “Reaching potential is more important than reaching goals.”

Best Practice—November 12

On November 12, Untapping Hidden Organizational Horsepower will be the topic of discussion from 11 am to 1 pm. As companies struggle to remain competitive in the current business environment, this session provides opportunity to consider the dimensions associated with engaged work forces and the building blocks for a continuous improvement culture.

Wipfli is presenting and hosting this Best Practice session for all interested members and sponsors at their Appleton office. Lunch will be provided. Register on the Forum’s website http://wfbf.uwosh.edu under the Programs/Registrations link.

Director’s Column

Susan Schierstedt

Each year it is my responsibility to write the Forum’s Annual Report. For those of you involved in a similar project, I know you appreciate the significance of the task.

What makes the project most significant for me is going back over the year and realizing all the families we have worked with and for, and all the accomplishments of the year. I am extremely grateful to all of you for allowing me into your families and your businesses, and for allowing Donna, Burk and me to serve you.

I invite you to take a few minutes to go to our website and access the 2008 Annual Report. Whether you are a member, a sponsor, or an interested reader, I think you will find the accomplishments of the year of interest.

As Forum members and sponsors, I know that you are not immune to the economic downturn. If there is any way, the Forum can be of assistance, we want to remind you of our willingness to do whatever we can to help.

We were overjoyed with the number of family business guests at the September program. Let me say “thanks” to those of you who invited guests. I want to encourage you to invite family businesses that have not attended a program but who are in the midst of transitions and/or succession and could benefit from Forum membership to be your guest in December. What better time than the holiday season to be welcoming? We just ask that you register your guests so we can prepare well.
